BAT NELSON HAS CHANCE IF HE FIGHTS
FREDDIE WELSH IN HAVANA NEXT MONTH

Bat Nelson's recent twenty-five round go with Jimmy Freyer, a Philadelphia welterweight, has spread the idea that the old timer is not yet on the shelf. The remarkable vigor he showed for one of his righting years and the pep he had behind his punches has convinced ringers and promoters that Bat is still able to put up a mighty good fight.

Even though Bat is as old and palsied as many would have us believe he might still have a chance to cop. The pictures above show a method that Bat might well study and perhaps employ with great success.

VISSEK THROWS HIS
ORPHEUM

Pete Visser of Ogden stepped prominently into the limelight of the wrestling world last night by defeating Chris Person, the "Duluth Bear," in the best heavyweight wrestling match ever staged in Ogden, if not in this part of the country. The bout was pulled off at the Orpheum theatre, best two falls out of three. Visser took the first one in forty-seven minutes with a body scissors hold, and the second with a body scissors and wrist hold. Jack Childs acted as referee and the match was promoted by W. H. (Buck) Anderson. Two preliminaries were staged in connection with the big bout. Miles and Rudy going on for 20 minutes to a draw, and Roberts and Campbell for one fall, secured by Campbell in 14 minutes with a reverse body hold. Both bouts proved interesting.

The main event was announced at 9:35 o'clock by T. B. Kelly and a minute later both men were on the mat. At 9:37 both were on their feet working head to head and for the following 40 minutes it was a battle of brawn and skill against brawn, youth and skill, with the Ogden man possessing the margin of youth. During this period, the fans witnessed probably the greatest contest of strength they had ever seen, and though it was void of the spectacular, those best understanding the game were thoroughly satisfied with the exhibition.

Visser was the aggressor most of the time, but the mat generalship of his older opponent kept him from getting any advantage. Person kept a cool head throughout the grueling struggle, and at the 42-minute point, took the aggressive and in the mixup managed to throw his opponent bodily to the mat. This looked bad for Pete for a short space of time and then, showing a knowledge of wrestling that surprised even his best friends, he secured the deadly reverse hammerlock from his under position and in a couple of seconds later had Person on the defensive. The "Bear" then showed his power by breaking out the hammerlock, but Visser meant business and by holding his position of vantage secured the body scissors hold that won him the first fall. The hold was a wicked one and Person soon began to show signs of agony. Visser gradually kept tightening up and the eastern man finally looked at his second, Frank DuCray, and raised a finger. DuCray saw the situation and fearing that Person's ribs would be broken if he held out longer, signaled Referee Childs to award the fall.

Both men came back on the mat apparently as strong as ever, with Person more cautious and Visser eager to secure an early fall. At the three-minute point Pete went to the mat intentionally giving the visitor the first advantage.

The latter then worked desperately for a reverse body hold but his attempt was blocked by the Ogden youth. The positions were soon changed and from that time until the close of the bout, the struggle was desperate. Visser kept up a constant offensive, and Person moved his right to the sobriquet "Bear" with a remarkable display of strength and endurance, holding up under punishment that few wrestlers could have withstood. Visser tried for more than 10 minutes to put his shoulders to the mat with arm holds and sheer strength, but Person would not give up. Finally, the younger man gave an exhibition of wrestling skill that he was not before known to possess, using hold after hold for punishment.

He finally secured a leg lock and half Nelson that looked good for a fall, but this was broken by his opponent, who then fell into a body scissors hold. He also struggled out of this, but Visser soon clamped one of the same kind on again and with it, a punishing wrist hold. The extreme punishment of the two, coupled with the strong pressure put on by the younger man, forced the "Bear" to succumb and his shoulders went to the mat for the second time at 11:04 o'clock.

At the conclusion of the bout, Person made a speech, referring to Visser as a wonderful young man. He had underestimated him, he said, but while giving him all credit for his victory, believed that he himself had been affected to a greater extent than he expected by the change of attitude. The latter statement should bear some weight as Person only arrived in Ogden Saturday, making a change from an altitude of 800 feet to one of over 3000. In view of this fact, he asked for a return match and it is probable that he will be accommodated.

The attendance last night was not as large as it should have been, but as Visser has now firmly established himself as a high-class wrestler by defeating Person, Promoter Anderson has hopes of recouping his losses on the bouts he has thus far staged with the fireman as the central figure.

ALL HALLOWS READY.

Salt Lake, April 13.—The All Hallows college baseball team will be prepared to put up a stiff battle in the opening contest tomorrow afternoon, when Coach Hamilton's Jordan farmers will try to take the college boys' scalp. The Jordan team has a hunky bunch of lads in its lineup and has been working hard to put out a championship nine. Coach Hamilton's men are heavy hitters and the All Hallows boys have planned to pitch C. Sullivan against them in the opening contest.

YANKEE RUE SHADES
THE BOILERMAKER

Salt Lake, April 13.—Yankee Rue's four-round decision over Young Gilbert of the Harman club gave the club honors to the Manhattan boys at last night's boxing show in the Garlick theatre. Rue took an early lead on the boilermaker and used his left jab to good advantage. His left prevented Gilbert from sending home some of his hard sledgehammer right uppercuts and Rue was unmarked at the end of the four rounds, while Gilbert was a little mugged up. Rue's showing apparently made more as a surprise to Gilbert than to the crowd which held Gilbert a strong favorite, but after the first round Rue kept after Gilbert with his hard lefts until the end of the battle. Larry Moran and Jim Donaldson were official referees for this match and both decided with Jack Donnelly, the third man in the ring, to give the bout to Rue.

CALIFORNIA-NEVADA
AUTOISTS IN ZION

Salt Lake, April 13.—One day ahead of schedule time the California-Nevada party of automobile road boosters arrived in Salt Lake yesterday afternoon. The party made the trip in automobiles over the automobile route from Los Angeles to Salt Lake via the Owens river, Big Pine, Goldfield, Tonopah and Ely, Nev., and south of the lake into Salt Lake City.

The party consists of Fred Eaton, former mayor of Los Angeles, and now a resident of Big Pine, Cal.; O. K. Parker, civil engineer, and wife of Los Angeles; W. W. Pedder, capitalist of Los Angeles, and wife; Mark Watterson, banker of Bishop, Cal.; R. B. Davis, county commissioner and state highway commissioner of Nevada; J. H. Gallagher, city councillor of Ely, Nev.; Senator A. L. Haight, city attorney of Ely; John Webber and D. C. McDonald, county commissioners of Ely county, Nevada; Gale S. Hoag of Ely, and Frank Suttle of Ely.

The party came to Salt Lake with a view of interesting Salt Lake in the boosting and improving of the auto route between here and Los Angeles. They believe a great amount of trans-continental automobile travel can be made to see the value of this route on the trip across the country and that both cities, as well as the cities, towns and counties en route, should get together and form an organization, whose main object should be the improvement of this route, and then make this fact known to the general public at large.

VETERAN HURLER
GIVEN RELEASE

Frank Arrelanes Slow to Get Into Condition With Salt Lake Ball Team.

Salt Lake, April 13.—Frank Arrelanes, veteran Coast league hurler and one time with the Boston Red Sox, was released by the Salt Lake club yesterday. Arrelanes was left in Salt Lake with pitcher Henderson and Catcher Lynn when the team left

GREECE YET TO AID IN WAR ON TURKEY,
HINTS VENIZELLOS, DEPOSED EX-PREMIER

That the former premier of Greece, Eleutheros Venizelos, ousted by King Constantine because he wished his country to join the allies in the attack on the Dardanelles, expects to "come back" and, by popular demand, yet compel Greece to wage war on the Turk was expressed to the Athens correspondent of a London daily by the Grecian statesman a few days ago.

Sunday night for Oakland. He received word of his release from Manager Blankenship yesterday. Blankenship did not intimate who he was going to cut from the squad before he left, but it was understood the club had too many players on the roster and that someone would draw release when the team left for the road trip.

No reason was assigned for the release, although it was generally understood Arrelanes was slow to get into condition, more so than any other hurler on the staff, and that in view of instructions to cut down the ax fell on him. The veteran pitcher came to Salt Lake last winter with the Sacramento franchise and thirteen ball players. He has pitched in the Coast league several years, last year with Sacramento, and it is possible he may yet be picked up by another of the Coast league clubs in the event the pitchers now signed fail to come up to the standard.

Arrelanes worked in only one game for Salt Lake. He started the game against Portland Saturday and lasted two and two-thirds innings, during which he was pounded for four runs and six hits. Thirteen men faced him. He retired the first two men to face him, but the succeeding batters fell on his offerings, sending the ball to all corners of the lot.

Salt Lake begins its first series on the road at Oakland today, assisting the Oaks in the opening day ceremonies. Oakland has already played several games with San Francisco on the home grounds this year, but the formal opening of the season was reserved for the first game today with the Salt Lake club. A fast game is expected, and the Oakland management looks forward to a record-breaking crowd to greet the Salt Lake team representing the new city in the Coast league.

Portland will enjoy opening day festivities at home this afternoon with Venice. Portland also expects large crowds to attend the game, particularly as today is the first occasion this year Portland fans will see the Beavers in action. Salt Lake be Oakland club, and it is probable the series will give an indication of the respective strength of the two clubs. Portland begins its home series with an even break of six games won and six lost, and has considerably the better of Venice in the percentage.

San Francisco and Los Angeles, separated for the lead of the league by half a game, will begin a seven-game series in Los Angeles. Both teams have been playing gill-edge ball and good battles are expected before the week ends. These teams looked on paper as the strongest teams in the league before the season started, but both have shown they cannot be considered runaway contenders, and neither at the present time stands out so strongly as to place it a favorite above the others.

San Francisco won six of seven games from Venice for the series last week, but the ability and strength of the Tigers cannot be determined from this series. The Seals won all six victories by one run, some of the games going for extra innings, and the outcome of each game was in doubt until the last man was out. San Francisco will perform away from home this week and a better line on the actual strength of the team can be gotten when they finish with Los Angeles.

Next Tuesday, Salt Lake will go to Portland for Portland's second series at home. Venice will open at home with San Francisco and Los Angeles will play at Oakland.

This week's series for Salt Lake will be the first real test for the local team. There will be a chance to develop better teamwork and the pitchers will be favored by warmer weather and a lower altitude.

If the team continues the hitting pace it has set since the season started it will be well in line to win a majority of the games on the first trip, and if the work in pitching, batting, base running and fielding is combined to bring team play, the club stands a more than even chance to return for the next series at home with more games won than lost.

FAILURE AHEAD FOR THE MINOR TEAMS

Chicago, April 12.—No more than three or four minor leagues in the entire country will be operating a week after the Fourth of July, according to Fielder A. Jones, who before joining the Federal league was president of the Northwestern baseball league.

Jones, who is manager of the St. Louis Federals, said this situation would be the result of the fight waged between the Federals and the forces of organized baseball.

"I am not certain that all of the minor organizations will even open," he said yesterday. "As for making money, none of them will; that is a certainty."

RIDE IT TO WORK
RIDE IT FOR FUN

You can get a lot of fun out of a Smith Motor Wheel—it means all the pleasures of bicycling with the work left out. You can attach the Smith Motor Wheel to your bicycle or tandem in a few moments, climb on, give the pedals a couple of revolutions, push a little thumb lever and away you go! 20 miles an hour—100 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

Motorwheeling is the most fascinating sport in the world—also, it's healthy and companionable.

The Smith Motor Wheel is so safe, clean and efficient that any member of the family from children to grown-ups of both sexes can ride in safety and comfort. It is just the same as riding a bicycle only you go faster (if you want to) and the motor does all the work.
